Kade Newell

Bachelor of International Studies student Kade Newell spent one year on exchange in Europe at the University of Amsterdam as part of his UNSW studies.

"My overseas experiences were incredible and invaluable. Academically, I learnt a great deal about my field in different contexts which has broadened my knowledge base. Personally, I think it's important because you get to travel, meet wonderful people and make vital connections."

In addition, he took advantage of the opportunity to participate in the National University of Singapore's summer FASStrack program.

The five-week FASStrack program involved studying public health and development and also featured a trip to India to observe doctors performing rural medical work, as well as visits to women's social groups and immunisation clinics.

"Knowing you're being taught by industry experts is really important. A lot of the professors and lecturers here at UNSW are world renowned and I have opportunities to discuss with them the issues that are important to me personally, to Australia and globally."
